W. V. U. DISBANDED.
A Most Successful Season—Good Players Developed.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 17.—The remaining games of the base ball schedule of the West Virginia University will not be played, and the team disbanded yesterday, after the most successful season in its history. Of the fifteen games played, only two were defeats, one being one of the games against Ohio Wesleyan University; the other being one of the games against Washington and Jefferson College. The team was remarkable for the fast development of players from whom little was expected in the spring practice. Peck's work as catcher, towards the latter part of the season, was brilliant, and the fine work of Deming and Crossland in the latter games was in strong contrast with that in the earlier games. WeWhorther, at third, put up the game of his life, and Rowland's pitching put him in the front rank of college pitchers.
Financially, the season was, as usual, disastrous, and there are several lists out for contributions to make up the deficit. The success of the team makes this an easy task. Of the players, Deming, McWhorter and Bowman will, in all likelihood, not return next year, and their absence will make a hole not easily filled, but Manager

BASE BALL COMMENT.

New Castle will be the opposing team at the Island ball park to-day and to-morrow. New Castle was scheduled to play Wheeling yesterday, but the temporary injunction against Sunday ball is still unlifted, so the New Castles were wired not to come until to-day. After the games this afternoon and Tuesday, Wheeling will go to Columbus for four games, returning here Sunday to remain home a week.

The hammers were unlimited in Wheeling because the team did not win a majority of the games on the trip. Teams on the road must be expected to take their bumps and then go home and even up things. Dayton probably has the best away from home team in the league.—Toledo Times

Dr. Watkins, the premier pitcher of the Dayton team in '99, who has been training the Varsity team at Ann Arbor, will arrive in the city to-morrow morning and will officiate in the first national game. Watkins was allowed to remain at Ann Arbor up to this time by special arrangement with Manager Armour. He will now be expected to get in the game with his old-time ability. His return will be gladly hailed by many old friends and admirers.—Dayton Journal

Dusty Hunt, who caught for Wheeling last year in the inter-state league, dropped in at the Dispatch office this morning. Dusty is well known in the inter-state and is on his way home from Petersburg, Virginia, where he has been playing with the Virginia league team of that place. Like the Atlantic league the Virginia circuit is busted. Dusty caught forty straight games for the Petersburg team this spring and hit at a .342 clip. He states that the pitching in Virginia is not as good as it is in the inter-state. He hit .288 in the inter-state last season. Hunt left for Toledo to-day and will try and get on with one of the inter-state league clubs before they are filled up with Atlantic leaguers.—Columbus Dispatch

Rain prevented Saturday's Wheeling-Dayton game, which was a disappointment to the fans who wanted to see the final game of the series with the mighty Old Soldiers.

Bates, who was to have been worked Saturday, may go in the box to-day, and Bowman is due for a whirl pretty soon.

JUDGE HAGAN SDEAD.

After a Lingering Illness the Eminent Jurist Passes Away—Issued the Well Known "Hagan's Reports."—Served a Term in Congress.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.
MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 17.—After an illness extending over a period of two years, Judge Marshall Hagan, judge of the circuit composed of Monongalia, Marion and Harrison counties, died this evening of Bright's disease. His death has been expected for two weeks and was doubtless hastened by the sudden death of his daughter, Miss Bessie Hagan, last week. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Hartigan and Miss Lily Hagan. The Monongalia circuit court is now in session, presided over by Special Judge John W. Mason, but under our constitution it will have to adjourn until an appointment is made by Governor Atkinson. The death of Judge Hagan has caused wide-spread sorrow.

The bar will meet to-morrow to take appropriate action.

By the death of Hon. John Marshall Hagan, the bench has lost a jurist of no mean repute, and the state one of her most eminent men. Judge Hagan was born at Brandonville, Preston county, West Virginia, on August 15th, 1833. His father was Harrison Hagan, later a member of the Wheeling convention.

Sketch of His Life.

Judge Hagan received his educational training at the old Monongalia Academy, the forerunner of the present University of West Virginia. He studied law in the office of the Hon. W. T. Wiley, and later at Harvard University. He was elected prosecuting attorney of Monongalia county for three successive terms, and later became reporter of the first supreme court of appeals of West Virginia, serving from 1864 to 1873. He issued the first five volumes of the court records, which are designated as Hagan's Reports. The preface to the first volume consists of an exhaustive account, (50,000 words in length,) of the early history of West Virginia, beginning with the first convention at Wheeling, and including the adjudication of nearly all the questions growing out of the war, in connection with the newly formed state; also a full account of the proceedings of the Richmond convention. This account, written by a contemporary, with accuracy and detail, is invaluable to the student of history.

Served One Term in Congress.
From 1866 to 1869 Mr. Hagan served as mayor of Morgantown, and in 1868 was one of the Grant and Colfax presidential electors.

Five years later he was elected to Congress, and served one term. In 1879 and 1881 he rendered valuable service as member of the judiciary and railroad committees in the West Virginia house of delegates.

At that time, too (1880) he was chosen as member of the national Republican convention. He was a warm personal friend of James G. Blaine.

Mr. Hagan was elected judge of the circuit court of the Second district of West Virginia in 1888, and again in 1896. In 1890 he married Miss Sarah B. Wiley, who died in 1897. Two daughters survive him, Mrs. J. W. Harigand and Miss Lily Hagan.

BELLAIRE HAPPENINGS.

Matters of Interest in the Metropolis of Belmont County.

The tank at the Bellaire bottle works is now turning out a splendid quality of glass. It took some time to get around to the right point, but the past few days indicate that they are all right and the workmen will be kept busy as long as this fire can last under the rules of the workers' organization, as orders were allowed to accumulate. The new workers were very much disappointed with their first experience at the tank, the glass not being what they wanted, and they could not work to advantage, but from now on, unless some unforeseen thing occurs, they will be all right.

Belmont county is represented at the national Republican convention by Judge J. W. Hollingsworth, of St. Clairsville, Mr. G. E. Bradford, who is one of the delegates from this district, and three of his Barnesville friends and associates, Harry Howard, who is in the bank with Mr. Bradford, Paul B. Worthington and Hon. Charles J. Howard, all representative Republicans, and actively interested in the success of the party.

The firemen from this city have arranged for a fraternal visit to Sistersville on the Fourth of July, and the independent hose team of the city will accompany them. The Sistersville firemen, Heatherington's band will furnish the music there and also at the tournament at Martin's Ferry on the 5th and 6th.

There were several drunks and disorderly fellows locked up Saturday night by the police, and even after the keys were turned on them they made a lot of noise, and when they were released they were in a very bad way. They were still in bed yesterday, and Mayor Freeze will pass on them this morning.

The Knights of Pythias, headed by Arlington's band, turned out in large numbers yesterday afternoon, and marched to the cemetery, bearing bouquets and wreaths of flowers to place upon the graves of departed members. It was the occasion of their memorial service, annually observed.

The Buckeye Fishing Club have their new and larger boat here now, and will at once have it fitted up and repaired as a pastime home for the members. It is larger than the old one, and will be better equipped in every way.
